(This seems to me somehow pompous, however it was asked for so here it is.)

The defining moment in my life happened to be in third grade. A few weeks before summer break, I was hit by a car. Since that incident, my entire attitude change and I went from a good student to a slacker. All through middle school I scraped by. At the end of eight grade I moved to California. The Theatre department there was incredible. It lit the spark that has since had me engulfing all the theatre I could. Scripts, Training books, critique, videos, and musical soundtracks, E.T. Al. Returning to N.J in the early November of 2002, I found wonderful guidance under Ms. Laine Sutton's wings.
